NAME HEADS FOR BOY WEEK EVENTS

District Chairmen Selected at Council Meeting Held Monday.

WILL START APRIL 28th

Narberth and three districts in Lower Merion were designated as centers for athletic contests and other events during Boy Week, April 28, May 5, and district chairmen were appointed by Edwin A. Carlson, chairman of the Main Line Boy Council, at its meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. building at Ardmore Monday night.

Frank H. Elmore, president of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club, will head activities in Bala, Cynwyd, Merion and West Manayunk; Magistrate Fred Walzer will be in charge of Narberth's celebration; George A. Mahl, Y. M. C. A. secretary, will head the observance in Ardmore, Wynnewood, Haverford and Gladwyne; and Harry Fried will be in charge of Bryn Mawr's participation.

The week's events will commence with an automobile parade Saturday, April 28, and will conclude the following Saturday, May 5, when awards will be made to winners of contests to be held in each community during the week. The tentative program is as follows:

Outline Tentative Program.

Saturday, April 28: Auto parade, for all boys in the Lower Merion-Narberth district, with bands and business floats, and private cars decorated by boys, for which prizes will be awarded, also a relay race from Bryn Mawr to Philadelphia.

Sunday, April 29: A joint religious service in each community, in which members of all denominations will be asked to participate.

Monday, April 30: Athletic contests throughout the township and borough, winners of these elimination events to compete in finals at Ardmore on Saturday.

Tuesday, May 1: The boy in the school will be given an opportunity to compete for prizes in an essay contest on "My Hobby," to be held in the Lower Merion Junior and Senior High Schools, and in private and parochial schools for boys of prep school age.

SMOKER NEXT MONDAY

Legion Post to Entertain at an Informal Evening.

Narberth's rejuvenated American Legion Post is planning an event of interest to all ex-service men and Narberth men in general—the first of a series of informal smokers. These will be held in addition to the regular meetings.

Next Monday night at 8.15 the post will act as host to its men guests and has planned an interesting program. The committee has disclosed the fact that some very desirable talent will be presented to entertain the members and friends.

Later tables and cards will be available for the card players, with smokes and eats for all.

Earle Achenbach as historian for the Dr. Benjamin Rush Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, announces that an illustrated lecture, "The Trail of the Flag," will be given for the Narberth school children and the Boy and Girl Scouts of Narberth in the Girl Scout room of the Community Building Tuesday evening, March 27, at 7.30.

NO DAMAGE

The siren sounded, volunteer firemen rushed to the fire house, a truck roared forth. But it was only a field of grass at the Montgomery Day School, which afforded this interruption of pinochle games on Tuesday morning.

COME ONE, COME ALL . . .

A device described by its salesmen as remarkably original and as having been placed on the market for the first time only recently, has been purchased by many Lower Merion and Narberth residents in the past week. It consists of an adjustable frame, a collection of double views of scenic wonders and of thrilling action pictures taken in the battlefields of France, with a bifocal arrangement for viewing them.

Adaptation of elementary laws of optical physiology causes the pictures to appear three-dimensional, with figures standing out in relief against their background.

Only a few went hunting in attics, cellars and closets, from which they resurrected forgotten, dusty objects which seemed to bear a remarkable resemblance to the "new and original invention which has just been placed on the market." The device, both new and old, is known as the stereoptican.

TWO SPEAKERS

The Narberth branch of the League of Women Voters will meet Monday afternoon at 3.15 in the Community Building. The program selected calls for two speakers: Mrs. C. M. Lafitte, of the Lower Merion League, will speak on "League Activities;" Miss Anna Pratt, of the White-Williams Foundation, will be the other speaker.

"DEBUNKING" PLEA MADE TO ROTARY

Organization Not a Religion, but One for Fellowship, Bartlett Says.

MEMORY TEST, FEATURE

A "debunking" speech and a demonstration of memory training featured the monthly evening of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Tuesday at the Cynwyd Club. Music was furnished by the Lower Merion Junior High School orchestra.

C. Edwin Bartlett, former president of the Philadelphia Club, spoke under the general topic of Rotary education. His talk did not run in the usual vein of exposition of formal principles of Rotary, but resolved itself into a plea for common sense.

"I only plead for sanity," said Mr. Bartlett, in commenting on wild remarks made about Rotary and in its name. "It is time we went seriously into the matter of debunking the organization."

Mr. Bartlett referred particularly to that type of speech and writing which finds its way into the American mercury as a horrible example under its "Americana" department. The speaker did not criticise the magazine—rather he spoke against the wild talkers who are responsible for the puerilities quoted.

Pokes Justified.

"The words that Rotary is 'the hope of the world', that Christ was the first Rotarian, and similar extravagant claims lay the organization open to justifiable pokes by its critics," Mr. Bartlett said.

"Rotary is not a religion, not a sect. It extends through most of the countries, religions and classes of people in the world. Rotary was not founded to paint white lines on Hanlon, who had learned the name and business of each member as he entered arose and rattled off the full name and profession of those seated

HOLD SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Tennis Club Affair Is Well Attended.

Over 100 people attended a dance held at the Narberth Theater Hall last Friday for the benefit of the Narberth Tennis Association incorporated. According to those who are in a position to know this was one of the best dances ever given in Narberth. Bob Savill's Orchestra furnished the music, which has not been equaled in these parts. The inimitable Jack Wine outdid himself as master of ceremonies.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of John B. Wine, W. D. R. Evans, Carl B. Metzger, Jr., H. Ronald Paige, Dr. Claude Harold Crane and Dr. Harry Hartley. The committee announce that the dance was so successful that it paid the deficit on the first club dance as well as expenses on this one with some to boot. Another dance is likely to be staged in the not too distant future.

MRS. ELLEN BURGESS

She is survived by her daughters, Mrs. John Dwyer and Miss Elizabeth Burgess, of Bryn Mawr.

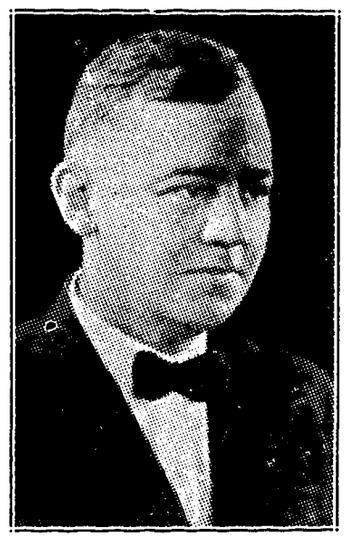
Chosen Ardmore Rector



The Rev. Churchill Jones Gibson, of Lexington, Va., who has accepted a call to the pastorate of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Ardmore, to succeed the late Rev. Andrew H. Haughey.

DR. GIBSON TO BE ST. MARY'S RECTOR

Minister From Lexington, Va., Accepts Call to Ardmore Church.

TO START IN APRIL

The Rev. Churchill Jones Gibson, B. A., D. D., rector of the R. E. Lee Memorial Church, Lexington, Virginia, has accepted a call extended him by the Vestry of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal Church, Ardmore, according to an announcement made this week.

Dr. Gibson, who will succeed the former rector, the late Rev. Andrew H. Haughey, about the middle of April, was for five years a mountain missionary and served as chaplain with the A. E. F. in France.

"The splendid work done by the former rector, the late Rev. Andrew H. Haughey requires that his successor be a man of unusual ability, and one interested not only in the usual pastoral duties within the parish, but in the program of the church at large," declared one of the Vestrymen Tuesday. "To carry on in these various fields and to build for the future, as Mr. Haughey would have done, had he lived, is the aim of the church." Dr. Gibson, we feel sure, is excellently qualified to realize this work."

The new rector is a son of the Right Rev. Robert A. Gibson, late Bishop of Virginia, was born April 20, 1885, in Parkersburg, West Virginia; educated at Woodberry Forest School, Orange, Virginia, the Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Virginia; the University of Virginia, and the Theological Seminary in Virginia.

A QUICK ROUND TRIP

At twelve noon on February 29, several of the local post office staff addressed letters to themselves marked "Via San Francisco." They were properly stamped with air mail stamps and sent on their way. At 6.30 P. M., March 3, the postmarks showed they were at the San Francisco Post Office; at 3 A. M., March 6, they arrived home in Narberth.

A comparison of dates showed that a little less than a week of time had been consumed by these letters in making a round trip across the continent. If this keeps up, airplanes will be making the round trip almost as quickly as some of the journeys advertised by automobile publicity men.

COACH TO SPEAK

Harvey Harman, an instructor at the Lower Merion Junior High School, will be the speaker at the Senior Luther League on Sunday evening, March 11, at 6.45 o'clock at the Lutheran Church. All young people are invited to attend.

TO STAGE DANCE

The Saturday night hop—no, it's not a game of leap frog, but a dance of superb quality being held in the Narberth Theater Hall, March 10, 1928, Bob Savill's Orchestra officiating.

HOPE FOR COUNTY AID IN REPAVING

Borough Foresees Heavy Expense on Wynnewood Avenue.

PLAN BUS ROUTE THERE

The Montgomery County Commissioners will soon be formally asked to take a part of a coming burden from the shoulders of Narberth taxpayers if plans now formed by Council go through.

Last month the Public Service Commission granted permission to the Montgomery Bus Company to reroute its lines in such a way that busses will travel up Wynnewood road, Narberth, from the railroad to Montgomery avenue. This permission was granted against the protests of the local authorities.

The protest was based largely on the realization that Wynnewood road is narrow, poorly paved and high-crowned, making it a dangerous highway for heavy busses. The authorities also stated that an increase of traffic on the road would soon put it out of commission, necessitating extensive repairs.

"Snap" figures presented on the cost of rebuilding the road have run as high as $60,000, which, if assumed by the Borough, would have a serious effect upon the tax rate. As the road will be part of a through route, Council has felt that County aid is the solution.

Borough Solicitor Fletcher W. Stites has taken up the matter with the County Commissioners, and is also preparing a resolution to be presented to Council Monday petitioning the Norristown authorities for aid. This is scheduled for discussion at the committee meeting being held Friday night and will come up for final action at the March meeting Monday night.

Those who are working for the county aid plan assert that Narberth is entitled to this aid, not only because of the use to be made of the road, but because it has not received direct returns from its county taxes for many years, although neighboring Lower Merion has had considerable help in its highway program from the county.

Wynnewood road now has but 14 to 16 feet of cartway, high-crowned and irregular. Improvement might take one of several forms—the entire street and sidewalks might be regraded, and a complete new road laid; the meandering sidewalks might be left as

FAMOUS PSYCHOLOGIST AT MOTHERS' COUNCIL

Dr. Blanchard to Speak at Open Meeting Monday.

Dr. Phyllis Blanchard, the speaker at the next meeting of Mothers' Council, comes from one of the most interesting and useful organizations in Philadelphia.

The All-Philadelphia Child Guidance Clinic has been working in Philadelphia for three years, studying problems of children, who for any reasons are not fitting comfortably into the home, the school, the community. With the help of the psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers, remarkable results have been achieved in solving behavior problems of all kinds, including those which Dr. Blanchard will discuss at next Monday's meeting.

Dr. Blanchard is the chief psychologist of the clinic, and is author of numerous books and articles, based on the detailed stories of her study and treatment of individual children. The general subject of the meeting is social hygiene.

The meeting will be held on Monday evening, March 12, at 8 o'clock at the Narberth School. It is open to everyone who is interested whether a member of the Council or not. Fathers, as well as mothers, are always welcome at the meetings.

A study group has been formed of mothers of pupils in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. The first meeting will be held at 3 o'clock on Thursday, March 15, in the school library.

Scouts "Firing Up" at Valley Forge

Four members of the Ardmore Boy Scouts who joined in the annual pilgrimage to Valley Forge on Washington's birthday were snapped as they were getting together on a camp fire at the historic camping ground of the Revolution. Reading in the usual left to right they are, Wesley McCormick, George Flemming, scoutmaster of Ardmore Troop No. 1; Alvah Severson, scoutmaster of Ardmore Troop No. 2, and James Phillips.

French Consul Brings Paris Home With Him to Bryn Mawr

Rene Weiller, French consul at Philadelphia, always takes his Paris home with him wherever he goes.

When in the consular service at Moscow, at Christiana, at Genoa and at Stuttgart he and his family lived in neither a Russian, a Norwegian, an Italian nor a German home. They lived in a French home. Now he has transplanted his French home here.

He has brought to his new home at 642 Montgomery avenue, Bryn Mawr, all the furniture, the tapestries and rugs, the pictures, the chinaware and the books that he had in his home in France. More than this, he has brought even the electric-light fixtures and antique chandeliers that adorned his Parisian home.

Lucienne, the French maid, who also was brought with them, together with the touches of French taste in furnishing that Mrs. Weiller has employed in blending the few American articles in the house with the French furniture, give the home its characteristically French atmosphere.

Yet every time the Weiller home is transplated it acquires bits of the country or city to which it is moved. On the drawing room floor is a Persian rug acquired in Moscow. In the dining room stands a handsome old cabinet dating back to the Renaissance, bearing on its wooden door a hand-carved scene from the life of Christ. This was bought by the consul while in Germany.

Louis XV and XVI Furniture.

The furniture in the house is for the most part of the period of Louis XVI, except the dining room furniture, which belongs to the period of Louis XV. Most of this furniture is modernized, while some pieces are real antiques and some few entirely modern.

The rare old porcelain clocks, the wrought-iron chandeliers, one of which is an heirloom and came originally from an old church; the earthenware plates bearing love ballads in French and dating back a couple of centuries; the rare age-stained prints and the Bible album containing illustrations by Gustave Dore and others, are among the most interesting things in the house.

On the mantel over the fireplace the appointments of which were brought from Paris and are very old, on the deep-cut window ledges and on a desk in the consul's library stand curious and valuable heirlooms, ancient pewter pieces, Chinese figures and African weapons that were given to the Weillers by friends. In the drawing room a glass-top table over in one corner displays delicately carved ivory fans, a snuff box that belonged to a courtier in the days of Napoleon I, and antique bracelets, all heirlooms handed down through Mr. Weiller's family.

Already the home of the Weillers, still dominantly French, contains something American. The dainty blue-and-pink voile curtains that tint the light that comes into this French home in the daytime were bought in Philadelphia.

about the table without a miss.

Guy Croyle, who had attended other demonstrations, declared that Hanlon performed the feat with the highways, put up welcome signs, or do loudly-proclaimed uplift work. Mutual backscratching has long been out of place, and Rotary has now reverted to its original purpose—personal and craft improvement, and good fellowship."

The second part of the program was taken up by Francis Bustillo and Joseph J. Hanlon, representatives of a memory training institute, who gave a practical demonstration, more than 200 diners at other gatherings. Members worried about poor memories gathered about the demonstrators after the meeting.

The orchestra, under the direction of Miss Wilson, rendered a number of selections during the meal and accompanied the members in the singing. The players were rewarded with ice cream, cake, and the thanks of the club.

ASSESSMENT RAISE IRKS HAVERFORD

Prominent Residents Meet to Protest Action of New Official.

STREET DEFENDS MOVE

A group of prominent residents and property holders in Haverford township met last night at the home of Colonel John S. Muckle, on Coopertown Road, Haverford, to discuss and protest against what they feel to be unjust inequalities in the triennial assessment recently made by Lewis G. Street, Jr., recently appointed assessor, and his assistants. Plans were made at this meeting to obtain a reassessment, to be presented at a public meeting in Media on Saturday morning.

Among those affected by the increased assessments are A. Atwater Kent, J. Stanley Reeve, prominent Main Line sportsman; Justice William L. Schaffer, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court; Paul Thomson, vice president of the U. G. I.; George R. Sinnickson, Horatio G. Lloyd, Mrs. John R. Valentine, Colonel Muckle and Miss Edith P. Hannum, one of the Township Commissioners. The assessment in one case is reported to have been increased 1000 per cent.

Mr. Street, originally elected as an assistant assessor, was appointed assessor a few weeks ago, upon the death of his former chief, James P. Gallagher, Upper Darby. His statement of his side of the case follows:

"The assessor and his assistants are simply working for an equalization in the township. This has been put off from time to time, but we knew sooner or later we would have to face the issue. We are facing it now apparently.

"We knew that some persons, especially in the upper end of the township would be disgruntled, but we feel we have ben fair all around. I have received many assurances from all sections of the township that tthe assessment is fair."

Even to Paris

The fame of Paul Scull, of Bala-Cynwyd, former Lower Merion football star, and now captain-elect of the University of Pennsylvania team, has spread even as far as Paris.

In a recent issue of the Paris edition of the New York Herald appeared a report of a dinner held at the Penn Athletic Club by the veteran and renowned athletes of Philadelphia. On this occasion trophies were presented to both teams and individuals for pre-eminence in sport.

Special mention in the story is given to Paul Scull, who received the trophy for being the most valuable college football player of the 1927 season.

Soil and fertilizers. Let us take the average condition in a suburban lot and agree that, in its original condition, the soil is not in perfect condition for making a garden, either for vegetables or flowers.

In all probability the soil is heavy clay. Clay contains all the chemical elements that most plants need for growth, but it is the physical condition of the soil that makes it difficult for the plant to root deeply and find moisture through the hot months of summer. The clay will bake and shed the water that should percolate through to the plant roots and the soil will be difficult to cultivate and to keep free of weeds.

In the vegetable garden it is a simple matter to cover the surface with animal manures, to turn it in and mix it thoroughly with the clay and make soil of fine tilth that is at the same time rich in plant food.

However, in the flower garden the matter is quite different because the plants are of a less rugged nature than the annual vegetables and the flower garden is not as conveniently cultivated as the vegetable garden.

Many of the flowering plants are perennial and are subject to fungus diseases which destroy them and these fungus diseases are bred in the manures in the process of breaking down to become humus.

The chief value of the manure in the vegetable garden is the formation of humus which combined with the clay of the original soil makes a fine soil for plants, the clay is broken up and opened, the soil retains moisture, the soil is easily cultivated, the soil being open allows a free circulation of water and air going in and liquid plant food from the soil to the plant rootlets.

For the flower garden we need humus in a clean form and a small investment in humus will correct the clay for all time and make a permanent garden.

Our garden supply man can furnish the humus in bags of 100 pounds and the deeper it is dug in and the better it is mixed with the clay the better our plants will root and grow; and the easier the garden will be to cultivate and keep free of weeds. There are no weed seeds in the commercial humus while manures will provide a bountiful supply.

Garden peat moss is also another means of furnishing humus although the peat moss comes in large bales which is sometimes too much for the small planting.

Both commercial humus and peat moss are highly acid and where a considerable quantity is used it is advisable to use some ground limestone or garden line to counteract the acid and bring the soil over to the neutral or alkaline side.

Rhododendrons, boxwood, laurel and azaleas as well as pyrethrum, columbine, lupins, chrysanthemums and woods plants all require an acid soil without any lime. The strawberry also likes acid soil.

Practically all of the other garden flowers and all of the vegetables thrive in a sweet or alkaline soil and the lime that is used to bring about this condition will also open up the soil and make it friable.

If sand is added to the mixture of clay, humus and lime the drainage will be improved and the soil still easier cultivated.

Flower Show in Bud

The floral display to which Philadelphians and people from many surrounding cities and towns look forward, will be held March 19 to 24, in the Philadelphia Commercial Museum Building, Thirty-fourth street below Spruce.

It will be known as "The Flower Festival" this year, and will be in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society.

More than $25,000 in prizes will be offered for exhibits. There will be classes for private growers, who are the owners of large estates in and around Philadelphia, the exhibits being prepared by the horticulturists and head gardeners on these estates. Many owners of horticultural collections will participate, including Joseph E. Widener, Jr., F. Eugene Dixon, William duPont, Louis Burk, C. Hartman Kuhn. There will be a large display of orchids from these estates, many plants being worth thousands of dollars.

There will be special classes for women and also for garden clubs and for gardens prepared by school children. Special prizes will be given to exhibits of entire gardens, covering not less than 1000 square feet.

An interesting exhibit will be an old-fashioned garden of the year 1828, which is the date of the foundation of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Sosicty.

James Boyd, president of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, heads the Flower Festival organization. Fred Michell, Jr., is in charge of participation of garden clubs, and William Graham, is exhibition manager.

Booksellers Meet

Last Monday the Main Line booksellers met at the shop of Mr. Newman F. McGirr, in Ardmore, for the purpose of forming a permanent association. The plan is to have an organization of all people on the Main Line engaged in the sale of books, prints and kindred wares.

Mr. E. S. McCawley, president of E. S. McCawley, Incorporated, agreed to act as presiding officer until the association shall have permanent officers, and Mr. McGirr will act as secretary-treasurer. Six people interested in this work were present, and another meeting is planned for the near future. Those present Monday evening expressed enthusiasm for the venture and planned to meet once a month throughout the remainder of the winter and spring.

CONOWINGO

THE great Conowingo hydro-electric project of The Philadelphia Electric Company is practically completed, three months ahead of schedule. Two units, of the seven that will shortly be in readiness, have just been placed in service supplying electric energy to Philadelphia.

Thus is inaugurated an engineering project of major importance in the electrical industry, a project that was completed in record time—a hydro-electric project which is the second of importance in the United States, and one which will be of the greatest value to the Philadelphia district.

The metropolitan district of Philadelphia has witnessed an astonishing growth in its electrical energy requirements during the past seven years—it will experience the greatest development in its history during the next decade. Hence in line with this Company's practice of not only furnishing adequate electric service in the present but preparing for future requirements, this great project was conceived, financed and promptly executed.

The Conowingo hydro-electric development will be of the greatest benefit to the communities served for a great many reasons, the principal of which is reliability of service:—

Water power producing units of Conowingo can be put into service in a very few minutes, in order to supplement the ever-increasing size of the units in our steam generating plants which require a considerable period of time from starting point until fully loaded.

This source of power is free from disturbance due to coal strikes, transportation difficulties caused by severe weather conditions, and like factors beyond the control of the power company.

Not only our immediate community but the country as a whole is benefited, due to conservation of fuel resources by the substitution of hydro power previously going to waste—for steam power. We estimate a saving of 750,000 tons of coal per annum.

The Philadelphia Electric Company is furnishing a reliable and exceptionally complete well-balanced service to the community. The extent of this service and its importance to all of our citizens is better realized when we consider that on it depend such vital other utilities as transportation, telephone communication, illumination of city streets and high-pressure water supply and, also, that our service furnishes the power for a very large percentage of all industry in the Philadelphia district and furnishes illumination and electrical labor-saving facilities to 90 per cent of residential homes

The Philadelphia Electric Company, as an organization, realizes fully the responsibilities and obligations which such a tremendously vital service entails, and it is our desire always to maintain this service at the highest possible point of efficiency. We suggest that our customers make liberal use of the free facilities which we furnish, a few of the more important of which are:

Power Engineering Service
Expert and experienced power engineers always available to present unprejudiced facts and figures on any application of electric power.

Domestic Heating and Refrigeration Service
Heating and refrigeration experts will study your household requirements and make specific recommendations based on facts and practical experience. 24-hour maintenance service is also available on domestic electric refrigeration and electrically operated heating installations.

Illuminating Engineering Service
Expert illuminating engineers who will present specifications and blue-prints for any form of lighting service, whether it be for a six-room house or large industrial plant.

Demonstration Service
A staff of competent demonstrators to give full information regarding house-hold labor-savers to our customers in their homes.

Educational Lecture Service
Available at all times to furnish interesting lectures, slides, talks and motion pictures upon electrical subjects.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Correspondents Still Discuss Idea of Annexation.

WHAT DIFFERENCE?

To the Editor of "Our Town":

After reading about Solomon and his offspring, I am wondering what it all has to do with whether we will, or will not, merge with the township, and the matter seems to have gone far afield. It seems to me that the comedy is as flat-footed as the logic, and no real argument has been presented. Lacking facts, Mr. Burns resorts to confusion, as is usually the case in a shallow cause. Possibly there is some merit in the case; if so, the "Committee" might profit by the selection of a new advertising manager, and common sense might very well be indicated as one of the requisites. Neither would it be amiss if a fair knowledge of language rules were regarded as one of the essentials, particularly when the subject has to do with schools.

To those friends who have called attention to the fact that I did not say what he said I said, the answer can only be: what difference does it make? So, Mr. Burns, perhaps it was "hops."

C. H. A. CHAIN.

CHALLENGES ANNEXATION FACTS

To the Editor of Our Town:

Mr. A. W. Burns must do much more careful and accurate writing than that which appeared over his name in your last issue if he is going to be able to win the intelligent majority of the citizens of Narberth over to his belief that any kind of government, no matter how far removed and imposed, is better than local self-government, provided only that it costs less.

Anyone who seeks to lead the people should be conscientiously well informed on the subject which he raises. Mr. Burns lacks either the conscience or the information or both, according to his own statements. He says, "The borough assessment averages very closely up to the maximum of one-third of the quick-sale value of the realty." Now, obviously, since English words mean what they do, our assessments cannot average closely up to the maximum because in that case some of them would have to be over the maximum which is impossible. Mr. Burns is totally unable to prove that statement.

He also says, "In five years the borough tax rate went up 50 per cent." That is a true statement, but appears to be intentionally misleading because it implies that there was an annual rate of increase which is still in effect and which has amounted to 50 per cent. in five years and would inevitably amount to 100 per cent. every 10 years. The truth is that the borough tax rate increased 50 per cent. in one year. That was in 1926. The truth also is that the borough rate was decreased half of that 50 per cent. this year, and there is every indication that further reductions can be made in future years.

The discussion which he inaugurated has proved to be interesting and worth while, principally because of the contributions to it which were made by the Spectator and Mr. Wohlert.

CITIZEN.

WOULD WARN CARS

To the Editor of Our Town:

Would it not be a good idea to have a DEAD END sign placed at the entrance to Wynndale avenue? It would save a good deal of time to itinerant motorists who frequently come in droves not knowing that Wynndale avenue is a dead end.

It would show a kindly interest too towards drivers, for the avenue is much too long to realize as you enter it that it is not a through road.

It would also help preserve some of the driveways in that large trucks make their turns by swinging into them often causing concrete to crack or break.

WYNNDALE.

HERE AND HEREABOUTS

To the Editor of Our Town:

The first impulse was to dismiss it all as a tiresome topic, as certainly the Fabian tactics of last week provided no zest for a continuance of the scribbling. On the other hand, enough has been said around town to make us believe that some little service might lie in an endeavor to have our questions answered, and whilst we have little expectation that our friend can be induced to come to earth, there is great hope that he won't be governed by Reoboam in his further fulminations.

Ordinarily, there ought to be a genuine appreciation of a man who is willing to support his convictions with his dollar, as indicated by the expenditures for advertising space, and when the name connotes Scotch, this means a great deal more than is usually the case, as Alex Shand will agree. The other twist to this feature of the case, however, is the fact that we are not only regarded as a group of numbskulls and incompetents in maintaining our present procedure, but money is spent to publicly proclaim that we are, and under the auspices which have been indicated, that bespeaks a peculiarly nasty state of mind towards the place where a man has his home. Nothing is right, everything is wrong, we are wasting money by the bushel, our school is second grade, our children are beaten into submission, and altogether we are a supine and stupid lot. Nothing is submitted to prove all of this, except a medley of comparisons which are no comparisons at all, and a bewildering melange of many things that are not so. It would be so much easier if one were excused from the whole thing.

When we first came to Narberth, a dozen years ago, Fletcher Stites told us the borough people were convinced by experience that it was short-sighted economy to have the taxes too low and we were not here long before we concurred in that conclusion. Since that time quite a few bond issues have been authorized, all with a substantial majority, and the two notable defeats were brought about, not because of the fear of a higher tax rate, but because the voters were not impressed with the merit of the particular plans involved.

The story of the playground is too well-known to warrant repetition and the handsome approval of the street paving bonds is also fresh in the minds of all of us. In both instances, a higher rate was invited, and in the case of the paving bonds, we have a clear insight into the real composition of our town, as the situation presented a splendid opportunity for 70 per cent. of our people to do something tangible and at their own expense, for the other 30 per cent., with results that we all know. In the township, and in other places, the house owners would have been made to pay the entire bill themselves, and there would have been no whacking up among the community generally, and if we can judge from what we can see over yonder, there would have been no streets, either.

The point is (and it is the only point involved from the standpoint of that fearful financial feature which is stressed so loudly) our people decided to buy certain things at a certain price, things that they wanted and were willing to pay for, and they are now engaged in paying for them at the rate agreed upon.

What is silly or inane or absurd about that and who says that a low tax rate, irrespective of its returns, is to be preferred to a higher rate fruitful of many excellent improvements? We recite the record of years ago and we have seen our residents constantly boosting the ante on themselves and glad enough to do it, too. Now, that these things are all done, with our tax rate heading swiftly downward, we are asked to give up our separate identity, with all that it assures, and move over to a township which is confronted by the necessity of huge expenditures far beyond the capacity of their present resources. Maybe we are dumb, and no doubt we are, but it seems very much to us that this Reoboam bozo is in again.

And returning to that overhead item which will not down, and which is said to be $10,000 annually, or about $1.68 per capita, we again raise the question as to what part of this would be saved if we allowed the township to gobble us up?

Who would do the work that George Suplee is doing and would the newcomer cut George's price for doing it? Or maybe George is not doing anything, after all, the son of a gun, or possibly the township would just decide not to have it done, as is said to be their way. That part of the inquiry ought to be settled, as George's cut is nearly a third of the total, and we should make him the starting point in this as he is in everything else.

Another third is that mysterious general fund, of Council, all of which is no doubt wasted, so easy is it to get money out of Dan Leitch, as you learn when you go to the bank and he reaches for his glass eye.

The other third represents the things we know about, and our suggestion about this is that the Secessionists go down to the fire house some night when the crowd is around and speak their piece there. And do you know we would be rather glad to make the appointment.

they are, with simply a repaving of the street, or the roadbed might be patched as best the funds would permit.

Wynnewood road residents, who, up to the time of the threatened invasion of the bus line have been living in comparative seclusion, are said to favor the retention of the informal walks, which wander up and down grade, around trees, wide or narrow as the case might be. A regrading would mean the sacrifice of many trees, and the permanent loss of the informal character of the sidewalks.

The Highway Committee has instructed Superintendent Suplee to prepare an estimate of the cost of various paving plans, and it is expected that Wynnewood road residents will be on hand Monday night to enter into the discussion.

The Old Merion Meeting House

Old Merion Meeting Has Been Landmark for Over Two Centuries

Built by Welsh Friends in 1695, Is in Fine State of Preservation.

On Montgomery avenue at the corner of Meeting House Lane stands a building which has been a landmark for over two and a quarter centuries. When all the surrounding territory was pathless woods and the only roads were Indian trails the Society of Friends established their Meeting House. Not only is this Merion Preparative Meeting a source of inspiration to the Friends themselves, but may well be a point of pride to the community to have a building of such great historical importance and interest in its midst.

The Welsh Friends who established this Meeting came to this country in the ship "Lyon" in 1682. It came up the Schuylkill as far as possible, when passengers left the vessel and walked to what is now Pencoyd, settling for some miles in and around the country. The land occupied by these Friends included the ground on which the Merion Meeting House now stands. These Friends were the founders of the Merion Meeting, naming it for their homeland across the sea—Merionethshire—a county of North Wales, which was named after a prince who ruled there over 1000 years ago.

From this rugged part of the old world came these serious, trusting people; persecuted in their own country, they sought peace and freedom here, a blessing in which they were not disappointed and which their descendants enjoy to this day. It is said that they worshiped at first under a tent until a log cabin was built some 200 feet east of the present building in which the meeting was held temporarily. The present stone building was built in 1695. This was repaired and plastered in 1829-30. It has often been regretted that the old stones were plastered over.

The Meeting House is in an excellent state of preservation and is well cared for from funds with which it has been endowed by a number of its friends who have come and gone, and who worshiped here during the two and a quarter centuries that have passed. William Penn worshiped here as have many other noted men of the Quaker faith. On the grounds are venerable trees and an ancient horse block—a survival of days long gone by, which is incorporated in the wall by the roadside.

The graveyard of the Merion Friends' Meeting is just east of the present house, and is protected by a stone wall surrounded by an iron fence. Passing through the iron gates at the side of the Meeting House and going along the straight pebbled walk we find that the markers with their simple legends are difficult to read. There are only about 225 graves thus marked, which is a very small percentage of the thousands of people here interred. The first burial at the Friends' Merion Meeting House graveyard of which there is any record is Catherine Reese, who died Eighth Month 23rd, 1682, daughter of Edward Reese, of Wales.

The minutes of the meeting held as early as the year 1684 are still preserved. In the minutes kept by women Friends one finds "8 shillings paid for cleaning the Merion Meeting House" in 1693, and for several successive years there are similar entries.

On the 19th of Third Month in the year 1693 in solemn assembly at the Friends' public Meeting House at Merion, a marriage was solemnized.

There was a school in the attic over the Meeting loft about 1820-1830. It is said that this portion of the Meeting House was not added until the nineteenth century.

Many of the benches used in the Meeting have been in use over 200 years and are today in a good state of preservation. There is a gallery over the main meeting room where it is related the young people used to gather over a century ago when the lower part was filled to overflowing. The original seats there also are in a fairly good state of preservation.

Some interesting incidents are chronicled concerning the Meeting House property. Hugh Roberts, a friend of William Penn, at whose house Penn often stopped, presented the Meeting with a handsome sun dial which was placed in front of the House, but near enough to the road so that people could see and read it from the roadside. It stood there until the Revolutionary War, when it was confiscated on account of the large amount of lead in it. It is claimed that it was taken by American soldiers and made into bullets.

The paths through the woods in these days were made by the Indians. When the Meeting House was erected there were no public highways; communication between the houses, places of business and of worship being only by these paths. It was only with the arrival of these Welsh Friends and William Penn that road building began.

The horseway is first mentioned when the pack horse with sacks, wallets and baskets or panniers was the mode of transportation. Five hundred pack horses have been seen at one time. They were generally led in divisions of 12 or 15 and carried about 200 pounds weight each.

Early in the eighteenth century the court confirmed the laying out of a road from Merion Friends Meeting House to Middle Ferry on the Schuylkill, crossing High street, now Market, which was no doubt the first part of the old road to Lancaster. In later years other parts of this road to Lancaster were built. This old Lancaster road is now Montgomery pike.

The Merion Meeting is called a Preparative Meeting since it is the lowest form of meeting. It is under the Radnor Monthly Meeting, together with three other preparative meetings. The Radnor Meeting is, in turn, under the Philadelphia Quarterly Meeting, which is under the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting. The Yearly Meetings were inaugurated back in the time of George Fox in England.

The active membership of the Merion Meeting at the present time consists of forty-two, which ranges all the way from Philadelphia to Haverford. The First Day School which meets every first day at 10 A. M., at which singing is a recent innovation, has a membership of thirty.

The Meeting House is open every First Day for Worship at 11 o'clock. For the past two years a greatly increased interest has been taken by its members and friends and generally a goodly number meet to worship. All seats are free and a cordial invitation is extended to visitors.

The editor is indebted to a booklet prepared by Charles E. Hires for much of the information contained in this sketch, and for the picture used in the cut to A. W. Cameron and R. J. Edgar.

The glorious radiance of Easter is possible because of the Cross of Calvary. Above all else stands out this Supreme Sacrifice of our Saviour. The best we can do in comparison is so little; the sad part is, that the little we can do is so often left undone.

Let us face it fairly. Such sacrifice on His part calls for our best. And this is the challenge of today. We rejoice in the sacrifices our people have made heretofore. We rejoice in their loyalty and love. We are counting on it now, and we are confident of a worthy response from each one.

BOTH SIDES PRESENTED

D. G. Murkerji Replies for India in New Book.

Now that it is possible to present both sides of the question, the library has bought and has ready for circulation, "Mother India" by Katherine Mayo, and "A Son of Mother India Answers" by Mukerji. Whatever may be said about Miss Mayo, it may be granted that Mr. Mukerji knows India as a native, and as a result of his travels in other countries, knows it also as an "outsider," and is undoubtedly well qualified to speak in defense of his country. Whoever reads the one book will want to read the other. Should this prove not to be true, the librarians may be tempted to exercise a slight pressure.

There are other new books ready for circulation also bought with the February dimes. The list follows:

"Hawkers and Walkers in Early America," by Richardson Wright.
"At the House of Dree," by Gordon Gardiner.
"The Lie," by Helen Martin.
"Disraeli," by Andre Maurois
"Constructive Citizenship," by L. P. Jacks.
"Meat," by Daniel Steele.
"Autobiography of a Business Woman," by Alice Foote McDougall.
"Red Rust," by Cornelia Cannon.
"Stained Sails," by John McIntyre.
"2 L O," by Walter Masterman.
"Money for One," by Berta Ruck.
"Great American Band Wagon," by Carl Merz.
"Art of the Night," by George Jean Nathan.
"Anna Belinda," by Patricia Wentworth.
"Sergeant Eadie," by Leonard Nason.
"Wintersmoon," by Hugh Walpole.
"November Night," author of "Miss Tiverton."
"The House of Dr. Edwards," by Francis Beeding.
"My Wife Poor Wretch," by Emma Brunner.
"Murder in the Pallant," by J. S. Fletcher.
"Southern Charm," by Isa Glenn.
"Children of the Fog," by C. H. Guest.
"Poor Gentlemen," by Ian Hay.
"Voice of the Seven Sparrows," by Harry Keeler.
"The Squealer," by Edgar Wallace.
"Conquistador," by Philip Goodalla.
"Alfred Smith," by Henry F. Pringle.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator is almost as portable as an electric fan. It has no drain pipes or connections. It can be placed wherever there is a convenience outlet. It's as simple as that!

Place it in your kitchen. That saves steps. And it also stops many a cold which comes from leaving a warm kitchen for a chilly back porch.

If you have a small apartment, you will be particularly pleased at the quietness with which the General Electric Refrigerator operates You will be glad that it has no machinery under the cabinet. That every part of its mechanism is sealed inside the air-tight steel casing which is mounted inside the coils.

Judged from every angle, these refrigerators are supremely practical. Remember that they are guaranteed by General Electric. Come in and see them. Compare them with all others. Time payments can be arranged, if you prefer.

AND HERE ARE A LOT OF BOWLING SCORES

Interchurch Activities for Several Weeks Chronicled.

Overcrowded issues have compelled "Our Town" to put the type for the bowling scores of the past few weeks on the waiting list. As a result, the galleys have become so heavy with lead that we are compelled to publish the crop this week in self defense.

Of particular interest were the games on February 13, in which the figure 13 came in for prominence. The "B" league standings to date show the Mules in the lead, with the third section of the schedule about to begin. The "A" league reports are not quite up-to-date, although they may land on the editor's desk in time to make the paper before the final pages go to press.

Number Proves Ill Omen for Mules.

The Baptist Boosters nosed out the Methodist Mules in one of the most exciting matches of the year. A singular occurrence presented itself in this match. The first game was won by the Boosters by 13 pins. The second was also won by the Boosters by 13 pins. The third was won by the Mules by 13 pins, and in the total pin score the Boosters topped the Mules by 13 pins. All of which happened on the thirteenth though the day was not Friday. Nevertheless the Mules decided to steer clear of bowling on the thirteenth hereafter.

At the Theater

Annie Laurie, beloved to the world for centuries in song and story, has come to life again—on the screen.

This is the latest role of Lillian Gish, queen of romantic drama, who enacts the historic Scottish heroine in her latest vehicle, "Annie Laurie," the dramatic spectacle of the Scottish Highlands playing at the Narberth Theater Monday and Tuesday.

As the Scottish Joan of Arc, Miss Gish plays a role so totally different from any in her career that it seems amazing. As Annie Laurie, noblewoman and mistress of the great Maxwelton Castle—then as a woman, braving the spears of her own tribesmen to save the man she loves, she has a role that plumbs the elemental depths of a woman's soul.

The confirmed movie fan, the occasional picturegoer and the individual who is finicky about his screen entertainment will all hail with joy the announcement that Warner Bros.' production of Syd Chaplin in "The Fortune Hunter" is to be seen at the Narberth Theater next Wednesday.

There is much occasion for the joy. Syd Chaplin is such an artist that he is welcome in anything in which he elects to be seen, and "The Fortune Hunter" needs little or no introduction.

A new comedy team, Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle, make their screen debut at the Narberth Theater next Thursday and Friday in "Adam and Evil." No better screen vehicle than this riotous feature comedy could have been selected for the initial appearance together of these two popular players. "Adam and Evil" is full of fast and furious fun, rendered doubly delectable by the accomplished artistry of Lew Cody, and by Miss Pringle's great charm and talent.

Rin-Tin-Tin comes to the Narberth Theater next Saturday in Warner Bros.' "Jaws of Steel," an exciting story of young prospectors and desert gold.

Rin-Tin-Tin's millions of admirers will find in this latest production of his thrilling stunts and flashing bits of humor, which even his earlier films have not had. The old boy seems to know just what it is all about. He seems to know that he is an actor and to glory in it.

PUT OFF PARK MEETING

March 30 Found Unsuitable—Date After Easter Now Likely.

The public mass meeting to foster interest in a Lower Merion parks system, tentatively scheduled for March 30 at the Ardmore Junior High School, has been postponed until a date after Easter. It was found that the tentative meeting day would conflict with a reception to be given Mayor Mackey at the Union League on March 30, which many Lower Merion civic leaders are planning to attend.
